

Shelley Goldstein

Keynote Speaker & Corporate Trainer

With over 30 years of senior level management, entrepreneurship, marketing and design expertise, Shelley Goldstein trains global audiences how to powerfully command executive presence and master the art of effective speaking. She understands the demands of the evolving workplace—with its increased emphasis on communication skills and leadership influence—and has helped hundreds of people in over 40 countries across a wide variety of industries develop the skills necessary to be empowering, remarkable speakers.

Founder of Remarkable Speaking, Shelley created her signature framework using a gamified approach, resulting in high level professionals quickly improving their communication skills so they can lead with confidence, clarity and lasting influence.

Shelley shares her expertise as a frequent podcast guest, speaker and presenter and member of the National Speakers Association. In addition, she leads interactive webinars and corporate training and is a Gold Tier Facilitator for Google's #IamRemarkable global initiative.
